

Educational expense loan

✓ A real estate loan or line of credit can help you with educational expenses ✓ Apply online 24/7

Reach your educational goals with financial assistance from Alaska USA. A real estate loan or line of credit can help pay for postsecondary educational expenses when federal or student aid is not available.

Student loans and Alaska USA

Alaska USA does not currently originate federal or state government student loans. However, on approval of credit, Alaska USA does offer other types of loans that could help pay for postsecondary educational expenses.

These are:

- Revolving lines of credit
- Real estate loans

If you're short on funds to pay for postsecondary education and have not been able to qualify for federal or state financial aid, these loans can be a useful alternative to help cover the costs.

Investing in your future

Postsecondary educational expenses can add up quickly, but pursuing your goals is an investment in your future. A real estate loan or line of credit can help you cover the following types of expenses:

- College, trade school, or university tuition
- Text books
- Lab fees
- Room and board costs

Vehicle equity

Because of federal law disclosure requirements, Alaska USA can not grant loans for any of the above expenses by using the equity you may have in a vehicle or similar item.

Additional student loan resources

Under Title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965, the Federal government offers various types of student loans. Examples are Stafford and PLUS loans. State governments also offer various loan programs with differing qualifications and repayment terms. Learn more by contacting your college or university's financial aid office.
